Ever wish you could see what DTLA looks like with the lights out? Come by LADWP at 111 North Hope during Earth Hour to enjoy live music, learn about what you can do to help the climate, and see landmarks like City Hall and our downtown skyscrapers all go dark at 8:30 sharp.

"As our City landmarks go dark on Earth Hour, I urge all Angelenos to consider the striking impacts of climate change -- and find ways to make a difference. We are making progress but we could do so much more. Walk or bike with your kids to school, take transit to work, save water at home, and let's make Los Angeles the most sustainable city on earth."
