PALMS BRANCH LIBRARY TO BE DEDICATED IN HONOR OF RAY BRADBURY,
MON. SEPT. 23, 10 A.M.

Bradbury family, residents and local students will celebrate the late author and unveil the dedication plaque at Palms – Rancho Park Branch 2920 Overland Ave.

WHEN: Monday, September 23, 10:00 a.m.

WHERE: Palms – Rancho Park Branch Library
2920 Overland Ave., Los Angeles 90064

WHAT: The late, great author Ray Bradbury will have his local branch library dedicated in his honor at a celebration featuring his family, residents, students, Councilmember Paul Koretz and City Librarian John F. Szabo, who will unveil a bronze plaque outside the library following brief remarks.

Bradbury’s works include Fahrenheit 451, The Illustrated Man and Something Wicked This Way Comes. He was a life-long library supporter, who began using city libraries when he arrived in L.A. at age 12 and continued for 80 years until his death in 2012.

Bradbury was a patron of the Palms – Rancho Park Branch, where he gave readings, hosted programs and often met with his fans.

The dedication was initiated by Councilmember Koretz, community groups, residents, and writers to honor the world-renowned L.A. author.

WHO: Joining Bradbury’s four daughters, Councilmember Paul Koretz (CD 5), City Librarian John F. Szabo, and other dignitaries will be community members, Bradbury fans and students from local schools.
